

Daddy,

I have seen you with your head down a lot lately and heard you and Mommy talk about something called alcohol. I have noticed that since you two have been talking about alcohol, Mommy keeps reminding you that you still have us in your life. She seems to tell you when you look sad and down. I want you to know that Mommy has assured me you will do your best to stay strong through your situation. I want you to stay strong and if you ever feel sad and are down, think of me. Pull your phone out and look at the pictures of me and know that I love and miss you. You have been and continue to be a great Daddy. Mommy said you have stopped drinking alcohol forever and said that is a good thing. She said you will be more focused, organized and will have more time to spend with me when I grow up. I am really happy to hear that. I know I am too young to really understand what alcohol is and why you are sad at times. But I do know that when we turn the screen on to Skype and I see you, you make me smile and very happy. I seem to do the same to you.

Stay strong Daddy and think of me often. I hope you will tell me when I am older of this situation so that I can learn from it and be a better person. I am your daughter, your baby girl and your princess. I love you whole big bunches.

Your princess